

Viewing Questions for October 15

These questions cover the Pixar movie “Up.” The answers do not have to be turned in.

Background:

In the last two days we’ve looked at some people debating whether it’s rational to have emotional responses to fiction. Today is your chance to reflect on your own emotional responses to fiction and whether they are rational.

Questions:

1. Identify at least five points in the film at which you had emotional reactions to something going on in the film. For each one you should say what your reaction was and also whether it was rational and why.
