

Question for February 27

There are no readings for today's class.

Background:

Today we're going to look at some case studies and explore your own views. I'm saving the case studies for class, so all you have to do to prepare is to think about the following question.

Question:

1. Do you think that killing in war is ever justified? If so, in what circumstances?